Secured by Design

Secured by Design is a UK police initiative to support a major Government objective – the creation of secure places where people wish to live and work. Secured By Design accreditation is widely recognised and desired in the world of property development. To be awarded ‘Secured By Design’ a development has to have applied the principle of ‘designing out crime’ by the implementation of preventative security measures and security standards. We work carefully to achieve these standards, ensuring our projects realise Secured by Design specifications.

BREEAM

RS Security Consultants are Suitably Qualified Security Specialists (SQSS) to BREEAM standards.

A BREEAM rated development is a more sustainable environment, it enhances the well-being of the people who live and work there, protecting natural resources and making property investments more attractive, is of the utmost importance. RS Security work to the highest specifications and considerations achieving BREEAM ratings on their projects to give their clients the best standards, finishes and overall satisfaction.

What will we do?

One of the security consultancy services offered by RSSC acts as a central coordinator throughout a project to simplify the application of Secured By Design principles. We work with the Client, Design Team, and the local Architectural Liaison Officers to ensure that all Secured By Design principles have been addressed during the design and applied during the construction phase of a project. Through this process, we can assist in the qualification of Secured By Design status for the scheme and the subsequent award of the accreditation.
